AdvertisementKolkata: A district court in Kolkata has held a woman guilty of giving birth to a child who was then abandoned. Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Neelima Sen was hearing an appeal by the children's mother Nandita Ganguly in the case. The court's verdict said she had given birth to a child that was abandoned at the teeming Sadar hospital in the middle of the night on Dec 19, 2017. The infant had a fever and was immediately taken to the paediatrician, the court said. The paediatrician had examined the baby and after two hours of treatment the baby was discharged. However, when the ward staff was informed that a baby with a febrile condition had been discharged, the staff took the baby home and abandoned her there at about 12.30 am. The court said that after the ward staff was informed about the incident they called police but there was no one in the hospital premises at the time. "It is a known fact that if the child is not treated at the hospital at the earliest, then the chances of that child surviving are nil as the number of these children are huge every day," the court said. "The doctors and the concerned ward staff of Sadar hospital knew that the mother of the infant had deserted the child at the hospital at about 12.30 am. But no one had shown any compassion for the child," the court said. According to the court, the mother and the children's father had lived separately for a few years. The child was born in 2013 and her parents had been living separately since 2014, the court said. "When the baby was born the parents did not put up any fight to save the baby as per their wish," the court said. "But the child survived and after the child became an adult the child came forward to complain to the media that her parents had deserted her at birth and that she had experienced severe pain and was kept in dark for long," the court said. A run of uninterrupted play in the face of three consecutive losses really does not a winning streak make, nor does it really mean much going forward. Yet the Giants are just 6-5, which is tied for the fourth-best record in the league. They have lost four games by six points or less and six of their losses have come by seven points or less, and yet, they are in first place in the NFC East. That winning streak has allowed the Giants to stay in the divisional race and all but assure themselves of a playoff berth. "We just need to stay even more consistent on both sides of the ball," receiver Odell Beckham Jr. said. "Just every week, we've got to get better and do what we do." The Giants may not hold the lead in the NFC East, but they do have the look of a team that could make a strong run for the conference crown. The defense is coming together. The offense is beginning to click. They have five games remaining with some of their rivals, including Dallas, Philadelphia and Washington. And so, on Sunday afternoon, facing the 4-9 Cowboys in Arlington, the Giants will look to push their winning streak to eight games. It has been a record-setting season for the Giants. Eli Manning has thrown for 49 touchdowns, the third-highest total in team history. This season has been remarkable as no one really expected the Giants to remain relevant this season after going 8-8 last year. But here they are, in the thick of it, with Beckham running all over the field and Odell Beckham Jr. making the big plays that have made the Giants' quarterback the most valuable player of the entire season. "We're a resilient group, we're a hardworking group, we're a group that wants to be here. I think guys are taking advantage of everything and everyone is feeling comfortable here. The chemistry is great," Eli Manning said. Manning was once again magnificent in a down year. Last week, he threw for a career-high five touchdowns in a 45-17 win over the Jets. He has thrown for 2,785 yards, 32 touchdowns and seven interceptions. The Giants have had their troubles. They have been gashed for 302 rushing yards per game, which has the NFL's worst rush defense.
